

2020 Workforce Development Award

Purpose

The purpose of the CURT Workforce Development Awards is to provide significant national and international recognition for extraordinary, exemplary, and innovative training and education programs which either encourages individuals to pursue a career in the construction industry and/or enhance an individual's construction skills.

Application Process

Applicants are encouraged to complete the following steps to apply:

1. Prepare
2. Review
3. Approve
4. Submit

Applications must be submitted to CURT via that online Workforce Development Award portal. This is a new process for 2020. Be sure to plan your submission in advance as the submission must be completed in one session and there are word/character limitations for each question. Charts, graphs, or other illustrations may be uploaded during the submission process. Please direct questions to construction-users@curt.org.

Completed applications and payment must be received via the CURT website portal by July 10, 2020.

Prepare

The individual submitting the application is encouraged to assemble and prepare all requested information. All of the questions in the application are provided below to assist in this preparation. NOTE: Word and Character counts must be adhered to during the submission process or you will not be able to save your work.

- It's important to note that certain portions of the submission will be available publicly after the application is submitted – each of these fields are clearly marked. The purpose of this is to make outstanding programs available to the marketplace so others can learn and improve also.
- Other portions of the application are NOT available to the public – each of these fields are clearly marked – and will only be used for evaluation by the judges.

Selection Process and Awards Presentation

An expert panel of educators and industry professionals will review and evaluate each application submitted through the online portal, judging the scope, innovation, creativity and best practices comprising the individual program. The review panel will determine which applications merit additional clarification based on a consensus decision.

Recipients of the Workforce Development Awards will be recognized at an awards ceremony to take place at the Construction Users Roundtable Awards of Excellence, November 17, 2020 in Cape Coral, Florida. A representative of the winning organization must be registered and in attendance at the CURT Awards of Excellence to receive the award. Status of the evaluations will be communicated to applicants in September 2020.

Eligibility

Past recipients of the CURT Workforce Development Award must sit out one year after they receive the award before applying to receive the award again and must submit a different program to be considered. (Example: Award winners of the November 2019 Awards Program may not be eligible to apply again until 2021. However, award winners from 2018 and prior are once again eligible if submitting a different program.)

Submittals from industry organizations such as Local Construction Users Councils (LUC), Building Trades Unions, Public Private Partnerships and other Non-Profit Organizations will be judged in a separate category than submittals from Owners, Contractors or a combination thereof. Two (2) distinct categories of Workforce Development programs will be recognized and awarded.
